Counter-Strike 1.6.Q: Multithreaded application. Does threading model affect performance of CPU Can anyone confirm or deny that Threading model affects the performance of the CPU? I want to make an application and I am trying to decide which threading model to use. A: This thread on SO has some good examples. A: This question has been asked before many times. And some of the answers are "yes, it does", and some of them are "no, it doesn't".

Some people give a definition of threading model - which is the total number of threads in the system - and from that definition, they calculate that running a single-threaded application will always use a higher percentage of CPU than running a
