Gun Jam has the intense action and mind-blowing graphics that you've come to expect from the genre. But that's not all. In this exhilarating fusion of FPS and rhythm gaming, you shoot your way through hordes of enemies as you jam along to the game's cleverly designed music. Can't get enough of your new favorite genres? There's also plenty of arcade-style shooting, including an exciting multi-player mode. You can even transform a single player level into a "Wave Survival" mode where you must not only keep your awesome combos going, but you also have to avoid the numerous game-ending obstacles. Key Features: New music-driven action genres, inspired by classic FPS games Exhilarating action, great graphics and more than 50 hours of gameplay Drop-in/Drop-out multiplayer mode Awesome campaign and three class-based multiplayer modes 3 exclusive game modes (Remote Shooter, Gunjam, Master of Guns) Challenge progression, ton of unlockables, achievements and cool collectibles Five game modes and a two player head-to-head mode (Link Attack and Team Deathmatch) Detailed character creation in single playerHow To Draw Children How To Draw Children (1992) Drawing cartoons is a hobby amongst children. Parents and friends often commission drawings of their little ones from cartoonists and illustrators. Some people find an outlet for their creativity by drawing pictures of their kids. To draw a picture of a child is to portray the way they really are not the way we remember them. Parents naturally feel this as they look at the way their kids look in pictures. However, unless your kids draw in crayon, your child might not have the same vision of himself as you. Your child might want to look great in his drawings. This is why some children want to have their pictures drawn by a professional artist so as to look their absolute best. How To Draw Children There are various factors that may cause the way children look when they draw to be different than how people see them. For children who are photographed from a distance children sometimes look older because the background they are standing in looks old and bleached. Children in photographs look bigger than the real person because of the distance they are photographed from. Children get dressed in clothes while others do not. And lastly, children look thinner because in cartoons they are usually drawn with round heads that are thinner than the real heads. The best way for parents
